The percussion panel is an irresistible attraction to young children. There is room for a number of children to use the drums, so children can learn together how different beats produce different sound responses. Sensory play trains the understanding of cause and effect and stimulates learning. The Robinia timber also provides an organic structure, that the children can touch and feel, observing how natural materials interact with the environment

Percussion

Social-Emotional: cooperative play and co-creation when playing from both sides.

Cognitive: understanding cause and effect with different surface sounds, practicing with rhythm, essential for pre-reading skills.

Creative: creating, combining and leaving a mark of different sounds.

Two sides

Social-Emotional: the low height and the transparency of the panel invites cooperation and communication.

Drums

Social-Emotional: cooperation and co-creation, parallel and group play. Cognitive: cause and effect understanding when creating sounds, supports a sense of rhythm, essential for pre-reading. Creative: creating and leaving a mark with sound.

The overall framework applied for these factors is the Environmental Product Declaration (EPD), which quantifies "environmental information on the life cycle of a product and enable comparisons between products fulfilling the same function" (ISO, 2006). This follows the structure and applies a Life-Cycle Assessment approach to the entire Product stage from raw material through manufacturing (A1-A3))
